

From NALC Bishop John Brodasky, regarding Lutheran World Federation

August 29, 2012

Dear Pastors and Lay Leaders of the North American Lutheran Church,

Please accept my sincere thanks and praise to all who contributed to our 2012 Convocation and Theological Conference by offering their time, talents, gifts and presence. It was good to be together.

I am writing to address some of the concerns raised in the discussion regarding our application for membership in the Lutheran World Federation. The Commission for Theology and Doctrine has already met and is working on a document to address these important issues. It should be available for your consideration by September 15, in accordance with the motion you approved at the convocation.

After presenting the resolution to join the Lutheran World Federation, a spirited discussion, the close of the debate and the vote, we announced the results. While the resolution had the required super-majority necessary for passage, the margin was very narrow. Instead of sleeping, I spent more time praying that night and decided to offer a statement the next morning expressing my deep concern. Most who were in attendance heard my remarks but I was asked by many to share them in written form.

On Friday morning, August 17, I made the following comments:

"I want you to know that I was troubled by our vote last evening. There is little joy when something this significant in our life together passes by the narrowest of margins. There is no joy in the knowledge that nearly a third of our delegates opposed the resolution. The term 'no joy' is military code for 'I've been unsuccessful.' Perhaps I was unsuccessful in providing you with the information you needed. Perhaps I was unsuccessful in the process used to discuss the issues surrounding the resolution. Perhaps I was unsuccessful in determining if we were ready to make such a decision. As I mentioned in my report, I am certain to make many mistakes. For my failures I can only ask for your forgiveness and work with you to find the best way forward.

"First, I want you to know is that in our conversations with LWF we have been bold in telling them the truth regarding our relationship with the ELCA and would not say we were in altar and pulpit fellowship with them. While the NALC had not made any determination regarding such fellowship with other church bodies, should we be asked to do so, we would probably not consider ourselves to be in altar and pulpit fellowship with a number of other members of LWF. It was the NALC representatives that raised the issue of the requirements of the LWF constitution, asking the question if it was pointless to apply given our position. We were told that neither our position nor the reality of our severely compromised relationship with the ELCA would impede our application for membership. The LWF representative told us that altar and pulpit fellowship among all members was a goal but not reality. At no point did we ever try to hide the truth regarding our identity, our values or the consequences resulting from the formation of the North American Lutheran Church, nor would we compromise our integrity for the sake of being perceived as politically correct.

"Second, I want to be clear that this is not an agenda that your leadership is trying to push through without regard to the concerns raised by our delegates:

- The consideration of this resolution is the result of the motion passed at our 2011 Convocation to pursue membership in the Lutheran World Federation. Your staff was following through on the motion passed by delegates the previous year.
- Our staff asked for questions and provided the most accurate information available to us, offering you copies of the most frequently asked questions and answers. We responded to every concern brought to our attention.
- While I am certain the LWF does good work through its initiatives and ministries throughout the world, we are not aligned with many of their agendas and therefore could not support them. Some believe that the ELCA and those aligned with them are using the LWF as another platform to influence an even larger audience regarding their political agendas, resorting to bullying and power politics.
- Our participation in LWF would be for the purpose of supporting the good they are doing and aligning ourselves with other member churches who are trying to move LWF in a direction that is more consistent with the witness of Scripture and our confessional heritage. Nations in Africa, Asia, sectors of Europe, as well as others, are trying to gather support to do so. Some of those leaders have encouraged our membership and support for a change of direction in LWF. They believe an additional voice from the west through direct involvement would assist them in this struggle of moving LWF from being agenda-driven to being obedient to Jesus' command in the Great Commission and strengthening the church world-wide for the bold proclamation of the Gospel.
- In our deliberations we must pray for those working for these changes within LWF. They have paid dearly for their stand in the loss of support from member bodies with whom they disagree. In spite of this cost, yet they are bold enough to proclaim publicly that they will not be influenced by money, power, or political pressure.
- We believe there is a chance for these member nations to succeed in changing that direction as these are the church bodies that are growing and becoming increasingly influential, while those currently setting the direction represent member church bodies that are shrinking or dying.

"These are important discussion questions in our dialog:

1. Is it possible to join the LWF without compromising our faith, identity, values and integrity?
2. Is our participation a way to produce positive change within the LWF?
3. Is the effort of faithful Lutheran churches within LWF to change direction worthy of our support?
4. Is this effort an appropriate way to expand our witness to the world?
5. Is it better to have a place at the table and speak out in opposition or avoid the opportunity and forgo the chance for influence?
6. Is LWF involved in anything worthy of our support?
7. Is our participation a way to encourage others to boldly confess Christ?

"I do not claim to have the answers to those questions. These are issues I believe our congregations will have to wrestle with, pray over, discern and decide regarding the faithful response of the North American Lutheran Church. I trust in the work of the Holy Spirit and in our ability to make an appropriate decision.

"We will attempt to provide more information and engage in meaningful dialog regarding the concerns individual leaders and congregations raise. The process is not completed yet. We continue to encourage discussion and prayerful deliberation. While some think we are not capable of wrestling with complex decisions like this one, I trust the ratification process, I trust the faithfulness of our leaders and most of all I trust the work of the Holy Spirit among our people. Sooner or later we have to test our structures by using them. If we wait until every decision is certain to pass we make the ratification process a rubber stamp and prevent our congregations from engaging in legitimate deliberation.

"For those reasons, if you do not approve this resolution in the ratification process I will certainly understand, support you in that decision and help our partners to understand the concerns and issues that prevent us from partnering with them in LWF. On the other hand, if you decide to approve this resolution in the ratification process you have my commitment that no one representing the NALC will compromise our integrity, witness or understanding of the authority of the Word of God as the norm for all matters of life and faith, our understanding of the Lutheran Confessions or the values that shape our life together.

"This is your decision. It is not my decision or that of any member of our staff. The delegates and our congregations will make the final decision about this matter. My sincere prayer is that you gather whatever information you need, pray fervently, seek the guidance of the Holy Spirit and come to an agreement that expresses a more definitive response regarding this resolution so we move forward together with far greater unanimity."

As you engage in congregational discussion and discernment, please let us know what further information you desire and what other questions we might be able to answer. We wish for this to be an open and honest process with complete transparency and full sharing of questions, answers and information as we are able. Please feel free to contact any of us in the NALC office with your questions, comments or concerns. For simplicity, you can direct all inquiries to Pr. David Wendel, Assistant to the Bishop for Ministry and Ecumenism, at dwendel@thenalc.org.

It is good to be with you following Christ Jesus,

Bishop John Brodasky

October Hymn Sing: There will be a Hymn Sing in the Union Church on Sunday, October 21st at 4:00pm.

PRACTICE SESSIONS FOR CANTORS – This fall several practice sessions will be held for potential new Cantors to help with the service. Both men, women, and youth volunteers are welcomed. Cantors will be able to remain at their regular seats in the congregation when performing the Cantor duties. The organist will play the lines of music along with the cantors in order to simplify the process. Perfect voices not required!

The Cantor is really chanting – Chanting can be described as being halfway between talking and singing; it is musical but not music. One or two notes only are used in chanting, and the chanter reads the words to these notes at a steady rhythm. The notes and rhythms used vary according to what the occasion is, but generally chanting is relatively low-toned and steadily rhythmic creating a calming sound. Chanting not only is conducive to a calm and elevated state of mind but also allows chanters to read through large portions of texts (particularly Psalms) more clearly and quickly than possible with normal speech while also conveying the poetry in the words. That is the essential reason for chanting. Worship at its heart is a song and is beautiful. “Wikipedia. Christian Music”
